

Director, Delaware Center for Teacher Education
College of Education and Human Development
The University of Delaware
Newark, Delaware

The College of Education and Human Development seeks applications for the Director of the Delaware Center for Teacher Education (DCTE). DCTE provides support to teacher education programs in the College of Education and Human Development, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources. The Director will bring leadership and management to DCTE in alignment with the University's strategic plans.

The Director will hold a faculty appointment in the College of Education and Human Development in the department or school most appropriate to his/her area of expertise and will have a scholarly record commensurate with appointment as a tenure-track or tenured faculty member or will have a teaching and leadership record commensurate with the appointment as a continuing track faculty member.

More information about the Center's activities can be found here:

DIRECTOR RESPONSIBILITIES (see website for complete job description)

Provide leadership and expertise regarding teacher education programs across campus in coordination with DCTE personnel and University faculty.

Supervise and coordinate the efforts of the Center's multiple offices, providing a collegial environment that ensures high-quality work.

- Work directly with the Office of Certification and Accreditation regarding the professional education unit's accountability processes.
- Work closely with the Office of Clinical Studies to support numerous processes, including: (a) securing high quality placements for teacher education candidates; (b) supporting partnership efforts with school districts; (c) providing professional development and mentorship opportunities to support teacher candidates; and (d) preparing annual reports for stakeholders and Delaware Department of Education, with assistance from the Assistant Directors.

QUALIFICATIONS (see website for complete list of qualifications)

- Ph.D. or Ed.D. in teacher education or a closely-related field
- Relevant experiences in higher education and evidence of leadership in teacher education
- Skills and relevant experience in managing and supervising professionals and staff

- Expertise in managing a budget and skill in resource generation, including grant writing
- Knowledge of accountability and accreditation practices, including CAEP requirements
- Evidence of a focused teacher education-related research program and the ability to implement research practices that ensure programs of world-class quality

SALARY: The salary is competitive, commensurate with experience and qualifications.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTION: Review of applications will begin on October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants must submit a letter of application that addresses relevant experiences, expertise, and leadership in teacher education. Applications should also include a curriculum vitae and contact information for three references. The curriculum vitae and other application materials will be shared with departmental faculty.
